Fourteen-Car Special Train Arrives in Windy City—500 Delegates Attend.

CHICAGO, March 25.—Five hundred delegates to the national petroleum congress, which opened here today, were virtually a unit on many of the specific matters concerning the industry. Factional differences were not in evidence and it was said action was contemplated for this week's sessions to effect the following:

Formulation of a protest by the united branches of the industry against government control. Merging of the Independent Oil Men's association and the American Petroleum League.

Formal organization of the American Petroleum Institute, an outgrowth of the petroleum war service committee, with A. C. Bedford of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey as president.

Harry A. Wheeler, in welcoming the delegates at the hotel of Governor Lowden of Illinois, told the oil men that they must determine whether private or government ownership of the oil industry should prevail.

Resolutions favoring legislation to open government oil lands to the producer on a 12 per cent royalty basis were introduced by Max W. Ball, head of the Rocky Mountain division of the Roxana Petroleum company. He declared $50,000,000 worth of oil would be available in the Rocky mountain district and Alaska.

Some delegates talked of higher priced gasoline, but others declared price fixing had no place in the region.

A 14-car special train brought Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas delegates to the congress today.

BY W. H. PECK

CHICAGO, March 25.—The first day's program of the National Petroleum congress was greatly marred by the absence of several of the principal speakers.

J. E. Farby, who was slated to preside, was not present, and Clint Woods, who was on the program for a speech on the Texas fields, missed his connections, and Congressman Phil Campbell, who was on the program for a speech on the legislators' view of the oil industry, failed to arrive, but will be here for tomorrow's meeting.

The address of welcome was made by Harry A. Wheeler, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, and made a very favorable impression, taking for his subject the petroleum industry and that it is a crime to allow even a barrel of oil to go to waste, hence the necessity of the most economical methods of production.

Judging by the applause he received, the new plan for a petroleum institute will go through with a whimper.

Max A. Hall was the next speaker, who made an earnest plea in behalf of a fair leasing bill instead of the recent law affecting Wyoming and other western states. Mr. Hall is chief of the Rocky mountain division of the Roxana Petroleum company.

Lieutenant Colonel Alfred W. Wilson followed with an earnest plea in behalf of a personal interview by oil salesmen when soliciting business from the government.

He said if two bids are exactly alike it is only natural that the business be given to some one who is personally known to the government purchasing agent for the war department, of which he is chief. They will get a square deal from Lieutenant Colonel Wilson.

An invitation was extended in behalf of Tulsa's commercial club to the association to convene in Tulsa next year, and every one who has been in Tulsa instantly signified his willingness to back up the offer to the best of his ability.

James A. Davis made an eloquent plea in behalf of the coming liberty loan, and spoke on war finances. His speech was so good that it will be sent by mail and may be printed later.

The industrial uses of motion pictures, illustrated by motion pictures, wound up the day's session, and was ably handled by James Hany, who illustrated his remarks by showing samples of the art.

Wednesday's session will be presided over by C. D. Chamberlain and will be refiners' day.

The center of interest will be the first meeting of the newly organized petroleum institute, which will be held at the Blackstone hotel at 10 o'clock Wednesday.

The entire war service board will be present.

THE COURTESY OF A SALESMAN
A salesman would a lady fair, like goods upon a shelf.

Unto the maiden of his choice he sought to sell himself.

And he was glib and smooth of speech, And all the arts of salesmanship he understood and knew.

Against the competition of the world he had to stand.

For there were many seekers for the favor of her hand.

"My dear," said he, "I offer you not handsome looks or wealth, But the love of a man who is true to his word."

It has had better men than I to carry out his word.

And they have built for character instead of fleeting fame.

As one of them offers you my future, That I shall make it just as my father and good as I know how.

"Others may promise more than I, much more may others give, I can give you nothing but my best while I live."

You'll pay a greater price for me than any other man can give.

But do not judge the liquor by the label on the can.

"I will not fail you in the test, I will not wound your pride, I will become your wife, When trials come I'll bear the load, I may not bring you fame, Nor wealth nor friends of high degree, But if your love I claim, I'll try to bring you happiness, what I can."

And here the maiden blushed and said: "You've sold yourself to me."

GERMAN-AUSTRIA MAY BE DRAWN IN.

By The Associated Press.
PARIS, March 25.—The conditions in Hungary seem to have affected German-Austria. Advisers to the American peace conference delegates from private agents in Vienna indicate the existence of a threatening state of affairs there.

This formation of revolutionary courts was decided upon and the council ordered the people's commissioners to take over all homes, businesses and all treasures in private hands.

ENGLISH ARE CONFIDENT STRIKE DANGER OVERCOME

The provisions of the agreement will be put before a special general meeting of the National Union of Railwaymen on Thursday.

PARIS, March 25.—An American amendment to protect nations against the influx of foreign labor was adopted today by the league of nations commission. It affirms the right of any country in the league to control matters solely within domestic jurisdiction.

Another important amendment to the league covenant affects article VIII, which empowers the executive council to formulate a plan for the reduction of armaments. The language of the article is altered so as to limit the powers of the council to a single recommendation to the governments affected.

The American peace delegation, it is understood, has definitely agreed upon the amendment. It will offer to article X of the covenant of the league of nations to safeguard the Monroe doctrine.

Recognition Agreement.

The amendment provides that agreements and the covenant shall be construed as an infringement upon the principles of international policies heretofore generally recognized.

Article X of the draft of the league of nations covenant read as follows: "The high contracting parties shall undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all states members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat of danger of such aggression the executive council shall advise the members by the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled."

President Wilson would have offered the amendment at the meeting of the league of nations commission last night, but discovered a slight imperfection in the text and reserved the right to submit it later.

As framed the amendment will be an appendix to the article pledging members of the league to respect and preserve against external aggression territorial integrity and existing political independence of members. Mention of the Monroe doctrine by name is avoided purposely.

Amendment Favored.

Inasmuch as President Wilson and Colonel House on several occasions have discussed the subject with President Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando, it is assumed that the president assented himself of favorably action in advance of the submission of the amendment to the commission.

Other changes in the covenant made at last night's meeting and which are regarded by the American delegates of great importance, were calculated to meet suggestions from the British and French delegations. They include a substitute for the phrase "states members of the league" in article X and elsewhere in the covenant, thus meeting the objection of the British and French delegations.

KANSAS CITY, March 25.—Amendments to the proposed constitution of the league of nations put forward in Paris during the last 24 hours vindicate critics of the present draft of the covenant. United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, declared in an address here tonight:

"If the framers of the covenant now stand confessing that they overlooked two great vital principles, then all the rest of their work surely needs investigation," he asserted.
